Pair married, Mar. 29, 1701, with witnesses Jacinto Sanchez and wife Ana Griego Montoya.

1703 (no. 9). ISABEL LUJAN and Juan Lucero (q.v.).

1705, Feb. 10 (no. 6), Santa Fe. SEBASTIAN LUJAN (24), son of Diego Lujan and Juana de Salazar, natives of New Mexico living at Real de S. Juan in Nueva Vizcaya, and Juana Teresa Trujillo (16), d. of Nicolas Trujillo and Maria Ruiz de Aguilar, natives of Mexico City and New Mexico settlers. Here groom denies having given word previously to a Juana Rodriguez, d. of Juana Valencia; denial witnessed by Francisco Rendon and Diego de Velasco.

This impediment brought up by Juana Rodriguez herself (14), d. of Alonso Rodriguez and Juana Valencia, mestizos and natives of New Mexico, alleging that she lives in Analco, the nearest houses being those of Juan Roque and Juana de los Rios; she now brings in Juana Cortes, her ^{sister} sister-in-law, and Juana la Guisache; of these two girls, one was reared by the mother of Las Chispas, the latter's step-child for being the d. of Simon de Torres; the other is an Apachita who belongs to Diego Velasquez. At this time, Sebastian Lujan was living in the house of Diego Velasquez, when she happened to find herself alone with those two girls in the house of Diego Velasco; the latter's wife, Juana Cortes, was at rosary devotions in church. Witnesses named in this connection: Cristobal Lucero and Juan de Leon, the Alguacil Mayor being Antonio de Aguilera Issasi.

Juana Rodriguez is then deposited in the house of Capt. Don Alfonso Rael de Aguilar, while the intended bride, Juana Teresa Trujillo, whose parents are about to return to Mexico City, is placed in the house of the (Mestre?) Sebastian de Vargas. Then a deposition by Juana de Valencia, n. of New Mexico, after Capt. Aguilera Issasi in the absence of Capt. Juan de Ulibarri and Capt. Diego Arias de Quiros orders a Miguel Moran, the ministro portero, to arrest the prospective groom, Sebastian Lujan. Cristobal Gongora is the Cabildo's clerk. Then a Maria de las Nieves, who lives in the house of Diego Velasco, testifies for Juana de Valencia, saying that the latter and her daughter Rosa had gone to Santa Cruz for a baptism on the feast day of Our Lady of September, leaving her daughter Juana Rodriguez in her care. Here mentioned is a Catarina, d. of Juana la Prieta. Further testimonies by Maria de las Nieves (13), who is a servant of Diego Velasco, and d. of Simon de Torres and Juana de Mendoza, both deceased; Juana de Valencia again, who has a son named Antonio; mention of Jose de Quintana (as clerk) in Aguilera Issasi's office; Catarina Velasquez (16), d. of Juana de los Rios, nicknamed La Prieta; Salvador Olguin (20), soldier, who says that, while playing a game of reeds ~~xxxxxxx~~ ~~xxxxxxf~~, he had seen Juana Rodruguez embracing a Cayetano Fajardo;

 Francisco Velasquez (20), single, confirming the Fajardo incident, when he was playing reeds game in the Analco house of Juan de Leon, incidentally mentioning piñon-picking near Arroyo Hondo; Rosa ~~R~~^Rodriguez, / sister of Juana Rodriguez, mentioning a Francisco Perea as also^{so} being involved; Cayetano Fajardo (18), n. of El Paso del Norte, and Diego Padilla, both of Velasco's household; Sebastian (Rodriguez) el Tambor, who sells firewood and has a wife named Juana, and a daughter named Maria.

Declaration of intended^h bride Juana Teresa Trujillo, deposited in the Vargas home, in the presende of Sebastian de Vargas and Diego de Leyva. She considers herself an española of noble if poor parents, and has a brother name Jose Damian; she says that Juana Valencia had told her that her intended groom Sebastian Lujan's father was an español, but that his mother was a castiza for being a coyota of Zuñi.
 Here she mentions Maria de Tapia as the wife of Diego Velasco. Also, that a Salvador Manuel, in whose house Sebastian Lujan lived by day, is part^y related to him. She says that she left her own family in order to marry Lujan. — Declaration of Sebastian Lujan, n. of El Paso del Norte living in Santa Fe, who denies all charges. Then that of Juana Rodriguez, who says in passing that Francisco Velasquez^z had wanted to marry a Felipa Manzanares, d. of Antonia "la Manzanares."
 Then that of Francisco Perea (22), n. of New Mexico and soldier, who mentions the house of Luisa Perea, sister of Isable Perea, where he and others had gambled at reeds game (cañutos); also mentions Maria, the wife of a Miguel Gutierrez, and also a Baltasar Rodarte.

Deposition of Capt. Aguilera Issasi: While passing by the house of a Maria de Ribera, the latter and Juana Valencia accosted him with their complaints; he mentions Jose de Quintana as his scribe. Next, the DM witnesses: Antonio Lucero de Godoy (55), Regidor, n. of New Mexico and married, who knew groom since his birth, the latter having gone with his parents to Nueva Vizcaya; Capt. Tomas Olguin (30), n. of New Mexico, soldier and retired Capt. of the Santa Fe Presidio. Lastly, the bride's father, Nicolas Moreno Trujillo, shows his petition made to Governor Vargas for permission to leave New Mexico, dated Dec. 7, 1703; he says that two of his daughters intended to enter a nunnery in Mexico City, while a younger one, this Juana Teresa, now in poor health, has^s vowed to enter the convent of N. Sra. de Valvanera if she recovers — hence he opposes her marriage to Lujan. But Juana Teresa herself denies ever making such a vow. Then the pair is actually married on Feb. 24, 1705, with witnesses Cristobal Maese and wife Gertrudis Sanchez. (This complicated story aside, several relationships can be worked out, especially among the lower classes in Analco.)

Buenaventura de Chimayo, is asked if a Luis Martin was the son of a pure Indian or a mestizo, etc., and if an Antonio Martin and his brother Hernando Martin had been married to such mixed-breeds; he answers that Luis Martin used to be called "Tigua" because of his Tigua blood, and that Antonio Martin, married to a Cortes woman, was the father of Juan Martin who was the husband of Feliciana Mondragon, a mulata; these latter two were the parents of Pascuala Martin, the groom's mother; the same witness further states that a Bartolo Martin was the father of Fabiana Martin who married Francisco Benavides, part indio and part mulato, and these were the bride's parents. Another witness, Marcial Martin, widowed of Gabriela Atencio, states that the above Luis Martin was a Tano who had married Antonia Miranda, india and grandmother of Marcial Martin; they were the parents of Antonio Martin and Hernando Martin; furthermore, all the descendants of Luis Martin had married mulatos, indios or coyotes. — Whether wholly true or not, all of these testimonies were for obtaining a dispensation from close consanguinity, and for which Indian castes did not have to pay. Fray Francisco Atanasio Dominguez, then in charge of the Franciscan Missions, judged that a dispensation was not necessary because the people in question were "neophytes," that is, non-Hispanic folk with Indian privileges on this score.
